AYER, MASS. May 23.—A class in mathematics was conducted at the trial of Paul L. Nace, ar Camp Devens to-day, when military authorities attempted to break down Nace's story that he was a prisoner on a German submanine and at a submarine base in South America from May 24 to October 15, 1918. He is charged with being absent without leave.

Nace was cross-examined for five months at the base on the South America coast; and that on October 15, as the U-bout was making up the United States coast he stripped off his clothes and sumped into the sea. Mic paid he grabbed a piece of wreckage and swam two miles to a point near Cape Henry Lighthouse, where he was found by a soldier and taken to Fort Story, Va. Lieutenant E. II. FIRE RENDERS HOMELESS FIFTEEN DANVILLE FIRMS on Early Morning Blaze in Dud-ley Building Estimated at $150,000.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

DANVILLE. VA. May 23.—Fire which swept with surprising rapidity through the three-groy Dudley building on Main Street at 4 o'clock this morning gutted the entire structure and rendered temporarily homeless fifteen concerns, with a money loss which is estimated at $150,000. Inturance agents say that the fire loss is 75 per cent covered by insurance. While the shell of the structure still stands, it is feared that the walls have been so weakened as to necessitate rebuilding from the foundation up.

The principal loss is sustained by the Southern Railway Company, the divisional administration offices of which were virtually wiped out. All that remained of their records, which are considered invaluable, were some steel filing cabinets, which were found in the ruins. Very few of the papers recovered are of further use.

The American National Bank was among those concerns ouvered.

the ruins. Very few of the papers recovered are of further use.

The American National Bank was among those concerns ousted. Fire did not cause great damage here, but cataracts of water have rendered it uninhabitable for some time. The large concrete vault was opened this afternoon, and all of the negotiable instruments, bonds and bank notes, also the books were found to be intact. The bank opened for "business as usual" at 9 o'clock in the offices of the Waddill Holland Rental Agency.

The most serious aspect of the fire is the difficulty which merchants will have in getting their stocks renewed. Many of those whose goods were consumed or ruined by water had laid in large supplies before factory production was reduced and they fear that time must elapse before they can start doing business again.

Before, even the fire was under control, merchants were hurrying around the town with rental agents in a genuine scramble to secure the few vacant stores in the retail section which are to be found.
